

Attacks on Health Care in Sudan

10-23 January 2024

 Insecurity Insight identified at least 254 attacks on Sudan's health care system in 2023. At least 54 health workers were killed in 41 incidents, compared to thirteen in six incidents in 2022. Health worker killings were spread across nine states, with most taking place in Khartoum. Doctors, dentists, gynaecologists, medical students, pharmacists, nurses, ophthalmologists, and a laboratory technician were killed inside their homes, while travelling to and from work and at hospitals' and clinics during working hours. Most of those killed were hit by stray bullets or during indiscriminate shelling, and on one occasion an armed drone strike. This violence against health workers impacts health providers' ability to maintain staffing levels that can fulfil patient needs and affects staff well-being.
